Another of Bellone's broken promises.

How does the current administration deal with our roads crisis? By painting roads black rather than fixing them properly! Since 1993 the Town of Babylon has budgeted $110,000,000 on road "repair" and look at the results....The town's roads are horrendous. In some places the potholes are so big they swallow cars whole. Where did all that money go?

Campaign Promises?

Steve Bellone began his first campaign for Town Supervisor "promising to fill many potholes" (Newsday, April 2001)

What Happened?

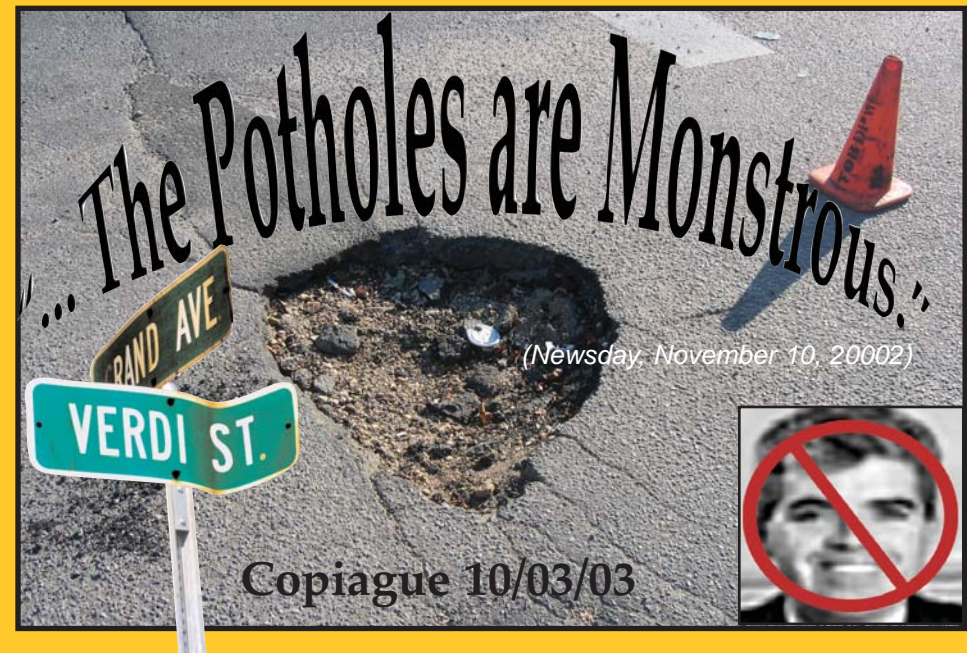

"... potholes in the concrete have not been filled correctly. Instead of concrete fill, which would require rebar reinforcements, the town uses asphalt..." (Newsday, November 10, 2002)

Lack of Planning?

"But the lack of proper drainage caused potholes, and the shoulders began to wear well ahead of their expected lifespan, so now the town uses the cheapest alternative." (Newsday, November 10, 2002)

Babylon Residents Claim Town Did Poor Plowing Job

(Suffolk Life, March 5, 2003)

"Nobody ever plows my street. . . . 'I've been here 40 years . . . it goes on every year.'" - Al Spero, North Babylon (Suffolk Life, March 5, 2003)

My husband "actually lost a day's pay since neither of [us] could leave the house." - Olive Nash, Amityville (Suffolk Life, March 5, 2003)

"[I] actually watch plows come near [my] street and plow the surrounding streets and then turn around . . . rather than venturing down [my] block." - Nicole Cayea, North Babylon (Suffolk Life, March 5, 2003)

When asked about Babylon's snow removal performance last winter, Bellone laughed and said, "The snow budget is busted." (News 12 Interview, March 20003)
